Position: Senior Silviculture Forester

Green Diamond Resource Company is seeking a Senior Silviculture Forester to support our Northwest Timberlands Division based in Shelton, Washington. This role oversees silviculture and forest management activities across approximately 315,000 acres of western Washington timberlands.

This position is a mix of field and office work, with approximately 50% of time spent in each environment. The role works closely with Forestry, Logging, Harvest Planning, Wildlife, and Engineering teams to coordinate safe, efficient, and sustainable forest management operations.

Key Responsibilities:

- Leading silviculture programs to include reforestation, vegetation control, slash burning, fertilization, animal damage control, and pre-commercial thinning
- Managing and overseeing contractor operations and ensuring work quality and contract compliance
- Supporting operational planning, scheduling, budgeting, and permitting activities
- Coordinating with internal teams and adjacent landowners
- Promoting and maintaining strong safety practices across all operations
- Monitoring forestry operations and adapting plans based on operational and environmental conditions

Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities:

- Bachelor's degree in Forest Management or related field, or equivalent experience
- 10+ years of forestry or silviculture experience
- Experience overseeing field operations and contractor crews
- Strong communication, planning, and organizational skills
- Ability to work independently and make sound operational decisions
- Commitment to safety, stewardship, and teamwork

Preferred qualifications include knowledge of Washington Forest Practice regulations, leadership experience, and experience with budgeting or operational planning.
