Job Type or Description

This is a rare opportunity to learn the whole tree trade — not just climbing and cutting.

At SuperTrees, you'll learn how trees are grown, planted, and cared for at every stage. You'll spend time in the nursery learning seed germination, rooted cuttings, and grafting, then take that knowledge into the field with hands-on training in planting, pruning young trees, pest management, and plant health care. You'll work with the crew leads and the Nursery Production Manager who will teach you if you're willing to listen and put in the effort. This job also involves establishment watering for trees planted last spring in and around the city of Portland.

This is a physical, hands-on job. You'll follow clear direction, work safely, drive large vehicles to locations during the workday for watering, operate equipment, lift heavy materials, and perform the work that needs to be done day in and day out. We're looking for someone who takes pride in honest work, treats people right, and wants to learn a trade they can build a future on.

What You'll Be Doing

Helping with daily nursery and tree work as directed by the Nursery Production Manager.
Learning how to grow, plant, prune, apply pesticides and care for trees the right way.
Safely operating tools, equipment, trucks, and trailers.
Caring for trees planted for our customers by performing tree care services at job sites including additional planting, watering and pruning.

Lifting, loading, and moving materials as part of the job.
Following safety rules and job instructions.
Being a reliable teammate who shows up and pulls their weight.
